SELF DISCOVERY CLARITY BOUNDARIES

You don't need a new person. You need a stronger you.

You gave everything you had and still ended up here, wondering where you went. This assessment was built for that exact moment. When you are ready to stop guessing and finally understand what happened and who you are becoming.

THE CONVERSATION NOBODY HAD WITH YOU

WHO THIS IS FOR

You haven't found yourself yet. So why are you building a life with someone else?

Whether you just walked away from something that cost you years, or you are still in it trying to figure out if you should stay, this was built for you. Wouldn't it have been nice to have your future self as an older sibling? Someone who had already lived it, made the mistakes, and came back to warn you. Now I'm not here to tell you how to get someone, but I can show you how to interrupt the pattern. The one where you commit too soon, lose yourself, and spend years trying to recover what you traded away for comfort.

> "People don't need a new partner. They need a stronger self."

I'm Alex Vivar. Creative barber for 23 years, single father of two, Alonzo and Alessia. I've lived through the drift, the overcommitment, and the quiet collapse. This is what I wish someone had told me at 22.

The $7.77 guide is coming.

You deserve to make the most important decisions of your life from a place of clarity, not longing. Breaking up from a long term relationship can mean splitting a lease, dividing belongings, or losing a pet. Having children together means co-parenting with that person for the rest of your life. The $7.77 guide was written so you make that decision with full awareness, not hindsight.
